Key levers for education development and success in disadvantaged communities

DIRECTOR'S REPORT

The best possible results come from seeing the bigger picture and being innovative. Courageously, ORT SA CAPE has done just that - focusing on the bigger picture, using our diverse skills and knowledge to act, forming meaningful partnerships and targeting key levers for change. One lever is introducing eager young learners to robotics together with our innovative literacy wheel in CASPER, our after-school enrichment programme – what amazing shifts have resulted. Great improvements in learners' performance in Science, Technology, Arts/Drama, Robotics, Maths, and Language in some very challenging environments!

Learning from CASPER, bridging the home-school gap by helping disadvantaged people of all ages to learn how and what to teach children, is a key lever for change in our volatile world. Short and long courses funded by insightful donors are in great demand showing shifts in both personal and classroom development of participants.

Our deep understanding of some of the most intractable issues in education found a voice in the research, monitoring and evaluation of educational projects. This lever feeds into our passion for education development of children by helping schools to create conducive learning environments. Schools can now identify and assist struggling learners to succeed.

Lastly but certainly not least, we engage directly with our own communities to facilitate networking and entrepreneurship leading to gainful involvement and employment through our burgeoning ORT JET organisation. Grateful thanks to all the mentors and mentees – the learning continues.

Collectively, the ORT SA CAPE team focuses on enhancing operations, and capabilities ensuring we remain at the forefront of development, providing all our beneficiaries with the best possible learning opportunities. The role of our donors in this demanding environment is absolutely key. We honour them as outstanding citizens going above and beyond the call of duty – Kol Hakavod.

Great teaching has long been seen as an innate skill.
But reformers are showing that the best teachers are made,
not born.

Teaching the teachers

The Economist June 11th 2016

When I am a teacher I will teach my own children about how good robotics is. I love it.

EDUCATION & TEACHER TRAINING

Our teacher training focuses on Literacy, Numeracy, Perceptual Skills and Cognitive Development in Early Childhood and beyond.

We believe that our united efforts will significantly and positively impact not only on the future of the people that we train but on the future of our young children reached by the trainees, affording them all an opportunity to realise their potential, and in so doing, to secure the future of our country.

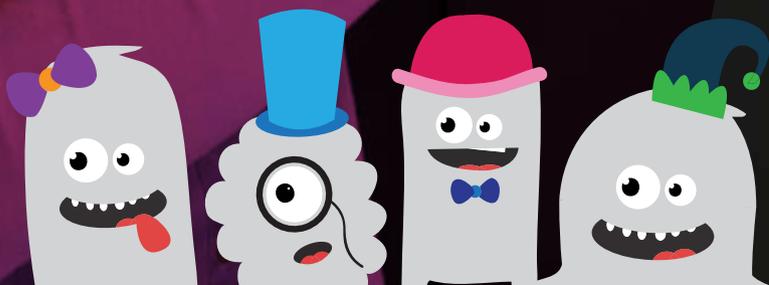

This course has changed my life and the direction I would like to go. Through learning I have gained courage and confidence. I want to set a good example, be a good teacher, leader and mother to the children, bring joy to them, and be there for them. Teach them to be confident, to trust, to love, to appreciate themselves – so that they can fulfil their own dreams.

Tryphina Rakgotho
ECD Teacher

I realise now that there are gaps in my teaching and that I have done my pupils an injustice. Now I understand why the learners and I have been struggling so much.

Teacher in the Overberg

The CASPER Literacy Wheel is an innovative teaching tool for developing reading, writing and comprehension skills. Developed, designed and produced by ORT SA CAPE, it is available in four languages for use in schools, homes and community projects.
